Description

Black A-board with snap action poster holders

Black A1 pavement boards are double-sided, to display your message on each side. Black A-boards attract attention on any street or precinct and can also be used indoors. This pavement sign folds away and can be carried by the average adult for safe storage while premises are closed.

Features of the A-board pavement sign

This black A-board poster holder is a stylish and contemporary looking A-board pavement sign. Made from high-quality materials, the frame is rust-free, durable and as easy to use as you would expect from the classic A-frame design.

A1 is a popular size for high street advertising signs featuring back-to-back display of two posters each 2ft wide by nearly 3ft high - not too big to obstruct the pavement but large enough to deliver your message with good visual impact. These attractive pavement boards stand waist-high.

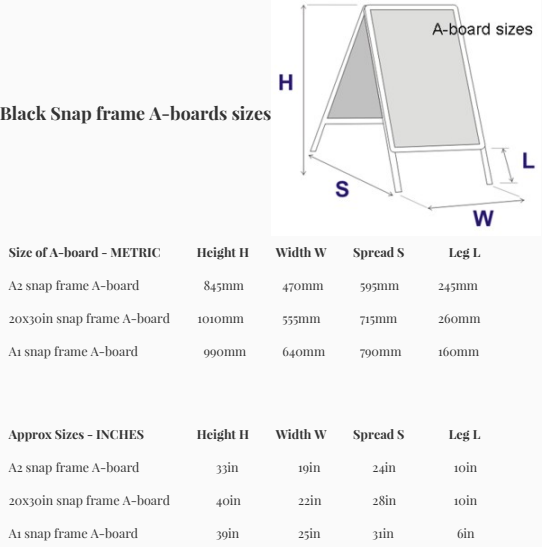

- Our snap poster frames are perfect for your own permanent AND changeable printed signs, posters and messages - ask your printer for waterproof prints for longer-term display
- Using galvanised steel back panels, our a-boards have added weight to resist moderate winds. The A1 A-board is a total of 8.5 Kg.
- Our black A-boards have rounded corners, clear poster cover sheets, robust hinges and a pair of locking stays - everything is designed with ease and longevity in mind

More Information

More information about A-boards with black A-frame design
Our black A-board pavement signs are made from aluminium, a rust free and durable metal which lends itself to recycling at the end of the product's life.
The back panel is steel but this too is resistant to rusting because it has a galvanised finish - that's a special zinc plating process to make steel more durable outdoors.
The back panel is quite sturdy - useful when revellers decide to kick out at an A-board outside a pub or night club! It does add to the weight of the A-board, but that's a good thing as it reduces the risk of the A-board blowing down the street if you forget to bring it in on especially windy days. The A1 size is however quite easy to fold up and carry indoors as long as it's not too far.
The poster frames on these pavement signs are supplied with drainage holes at the bottom of the frame but are not guaranteed 100% waterproof. Generally, this does not present a problem when posters are changed from time to time. However, we recommend that you print your posters on waterproof printing media and use the poster covers provided to keep your prints looking good. Regular paper posters might get damp under driving rain conditions and need replacing.
Alternatively, select from our range of waterbase pavement signs as these are fitted with virtually waterproof poster frames.
The clear poster cover sheets are made of plastic - UV-stabilised PVC which lasts pretty well outdoors for a couple of years or more. However when it's time to replace you'll find we offer slightly superior grade replacement poster covers made from another plastic material called PET.

Is permission required to display an A-board?
Do you need planning permission for A-boards or are there other restrictions? There is no universal answer to this but generally planning permission does not apply as A-board signs are not considered permanent advertising. However, in some areas, local authorities have passed byelaws which restrict the use of A-boards in an attempt to reduce street clutter and make pavements safer for wheelchairs, mums with pushchairs or strollers etc.
We suggest that you use common sense - if the pavement outside your shop or premises is narrow look for another way to advertise - perhaps a wall mounted poster case?
